

Animated Opening with VW Bug

Dave was well known for his Volkswagon bug - which was very ironic, as Dave is extremely tall. He would literally fold himself into the car, after he had added all his tools and Lug, his dog. We propose to have an animated opening done of this daily ritual, with Dave then driving out on the animated road map of the Creston Valley.

A restaurant in Creston was frequented for many years by the authors of this proposal. One of the more recognizable features of the restaurant was a cartoon map of the Creston Valley, with all the highlights of the valley on each placement. Dr. Perrin put a similar map at the beginning of each book, so that the reader could get a "feel" for the area. We propose to do the same thing in each episode - with an animated VW that wends its way along the Creston roads between appointments.
